INDIANAPOLIS, IN, US | April 2026: M. G. Lorraine Media announces the release of the second book in the Dorchester Sisters Trilogy – Antiquities: A Dorchester Sisters Novel.

The mystery begins when a shipment to the Funerary and Mummification Museum in Luxor, Egypt, never arrives. Jennifer Dorchester, an antiquities attorney who will do anything for her clients, doesn't hesitate to leave her home in Denver, CO, to find the missing crate. Worlds collide as Greg, the Italian investigator, and Jennifer navigate a network of thieves, money launderers, antiquities smugglers, and murderers. Jennifer and Greg race to recover the stolen shabti as powerful, intelligent villains lead them deep into a criminal underworld where history, greed, and vengeance connect.

Jennifer finds her match in the one person who will do anything to find the shabti and silence her. With her heart on the line, she fights for her reputation, her family's legacy, and her client's antiquities. Can she find the missing artifacts and escape with her life? Or will her heart be entombed with her precious antiquities? Some stories aren't meant to stay buried...

The truth hidden in Denver, Egypt, and Italy will not only reimagine ancient history—but also redefine Jennifer's own story.
